Each year, I am in awe of the accomplishments and acts of service that Buckley Public Service Scholars give to our state and our world all while also learning important life lessons from those they serve. This year’s graduating class of Scholars is no exception. These 307 graduates have dedicated thousands of hours in a myriad of ways while challenging themselves to increase the breadth and depth of their involvement.

The students honored in this publication join the 2,419 Buckley Public Service Scholars who came before them. This impressive group includes leaders of global, local and societal change who use the talents and skills developed while at Carolina in support of the public good. I have no doubt that they will keep changing the world in their own unique ways; for each graduate being honored, there were many others who helped foster their love of learning and service: teachers, family members, peers, service organizations, community members and many others. The lessons learned will continue to guide and inform these graduates as they pursue the next steps in their journeys as Carolina graduates.

The Buckley Public Service Scholars class of 2018 is leaving their Heel prints on the University by demonstrating and strengthening Carolina’s commitment to community involvement. As you read about their accomplishments, I think you will agree that they are an outstanding group who will continue to make Carolina proud.
Special opportunities for BPSS participants

Arts in Public Service Fellows

In 2014, the Carolina Center for Public Service and Carolina Performing Arts partnered to create the Arts in Public Service Fellows, a program that encourages students to make a direct impact in their communities through the arts. Arts in Public Service Fellows fulfill BPSS program requirements and build portfolios with a focus on the arts as instruments of social change. This year, Buckley Public Service Scholars Sarah Dwyer, Jill Levinson, Sydney Peavy and Sophie Plott are graduating as Arts in Public Service Fellows.

First-Year Service Corps

The Carolina Center for Public Service offers a unique opportunity for selected first-year students to come together with faculty and staff throughout the year to deepen their academic and practical experience in public service. Through a variety of activities, participants learn about existing and emerging opportunities for public service and engagement on and off campus. During the 2017–2018 academic year, 22 first-year BPSS participants and five student leaders participated in First-Year Service Corps.

North Carolina Outward Bound School Scholarship

Each year, the Center awards North Carolina Outward Bound School (NCOBS) scholarships to participants in BPSS. Carolina Leadership Development and the School of Education. Recipients receive full tuition for either a four or 28-day course at NCOBS. In 2018, the Center awarded 11 scholarships for 28-day courses and 10 for four-day courses.

Philanthropy as a Tool for Social Change

Philanthropy as a Tool for Social Change is a three-credit hour service-learning course offered through CCPS and the Learning by Giving Program. Through this course, students learn about and experience the process of awarding grants to local agencies. Students function as a committee and are responsible for researching North Carolina’s needs, designing grant award criteria, drafting and distributing a request for proposals, reviewing submissions and awarding grants to selected community organizations. Since 2010, students in the class have awarded 29 grants, totaling more than $85,000.

SMART Mentoring

SMART engages Carolina undergraduates and local middle-school students in mentoring relationships. The program targets students from low-income communities and focuses on race, class and gender issues. Students selected to participate enroll in a fall three-credit hour course and a spring one-credit hour course. Staff from partnering organization Volunteers for Youth match SMART mentors with mentees by early September and the mentoring commitment continues through late April.

About the Program

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Carolina Center for Public Service (CCPS) offers the Buckley Public Service Scholars program (BPSS) to provide a framework for Carolina undergraduate students committed to making a positive impact through service.

BPSS challenges participants to expand their understanding of service, connect academic and community-based experiences and build their capacity to help effect change. While completing the program components, participants build portfolios that reflect their learning and unique experiences throughout North Carolina, the nation and the world. Since 2003, BPSS has connected students with similar interests and provided special opportunities for leadership development and community engagement. This year, participating students reported service with more than 1,000 community and campus organizations.

In 2011, the Center announced the establishment of the Walter White Buckley Jr. Endowment. This endowment honors Walter Buckley, a business entrepreneur who applied his professional expertise and personal commitment to making a difference in the lives of others and who exemplified the qualities the program seeks to instill in Carolina students. The Walter White Buckley Jr. Endowment ensures Buckley Public Service Scholars will graduate for generations to come.

PROGRAM COMPONENTS

The BPSS program model incorporates a substantial commitment to public service with several forms of structured training and reflection on that service. While in the program, many students are introduced to social entrepreneurship, community-based research, advocacy and philanthropy as important forms of public service. BPSS is open to all full-time undergraduate students with at least four semesters remaining at Carolina. (Transfer students must have at least three semesters remaining to enroll.) To successfully complete the program, students build a portfolio that includes the following program components:

- BPSS orientation session
- 300 hours of public service
- One service-learning course
- Four approved skills trainings
- Senior reflection activity
- Minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0

Community Service Scholarships and MacDonald Community Fellowships

In 2015, Scott MacDonald ’72 M.R.P. endowed the first Community Service Scholarships. The MacDonald Community Service Scholarships established the model for the Community Service Scholarship program. Community service scholarships are offered to a select group of service-oriented UNC-Chapel Hill students. During their time at Carolina, scholarship recipients:

- Participate in the Buckley Public Service Scholars program
- Define annual goals by working with mentors and advisors
- On average, complete 250 hours of service annually
- Develop a capstone project senior year

In 2017, Donald Ubell ’67 created the Ubell Community Service Scholarship, and there are now 11 community service scholars.

MacDonald also endowed the Scott D. MacDonald Community Fellowship Program, which provides monetary support for juniors and seniors to work with faculty and staff to identify and implement a signature, experience-based public service project. This year, Buckley Public Service Scholars Erica Day and Tiffany Turner are graduating as the first MacDonald Community Fellows.

Day used her MacDonald Fellowship to create literacy programs and initiatives through SCALE, including Little Free Libraries and “A Day of Reading” celebration events. Tiffany Turner, as executive director of Pupusas for Education, utilized her fellowship to build capacity and increase funding to offer education access and scholarships to undocumented students.

2018 GRADUATES

The 307 students graduating in the 2018 class of Buckley Public Service Scholars reported more than 135,000 hours of service as of April 2018. Of these hours, 78.3 percent primarily benefited North Carolina, 10.4 percent other states and 11.3 percent other countries.

BPSS participants represent 49 out of more than 70 majors on campus. Participants focus on a large variety of service areas, from health to the environment.

The BPSS program has inspired me to remain active in my community regardless of where I go. The impact of the passionate students around me has demonstrated the importance of my service and the huge impact it has. The network of scholars BPSS creates has made volunteering fun and social, and I look forward to finding other BPSS graduates wherever I end up.

Although BPSS recognizes students for their commitment to community service, it was the other aspects of the program that made it unique. The skills trainings and service-learning courses gave us the opportunity to learn more about different kinds of public service and how to approach public service from a new perspective. This program made me love community service even more and gave me a unique perspective with which to approach it in the future.

As a Buckley Public Service Scholar, I have had the privilege of working with a variety of nonprofits encouraging education, gender equity and fundraising for the Center for Child and Family Health and Prevent Child Abuse America. This program has taught me to value all forms of service and to find resources to support nonprofit ventures of my own. Most of all, BPSS has helped me to personally define public service as a form of servant-leadership that makes a positive impact on the surrounding community.

The beauty in this program is that it allowed me to challenge my beliefs and push beyond my sphere of comfort. My experience with BPSS helped me to make sense of my identity, my interests and the path that I hope to follow professionally. It has helped to shape my understanding of the world and my relationships. I genuinely cannot imagine anything more enlightening, hope-inducing or powerful for my future than to continue to learn from the experiences of others in this way.

“Public service is not just something you do. It’s a way of life. Being part of BPSS helped ingrain the principles of stewardship into my daily encounters, activities and patterns of thought. Public service is the way we as individuals can balance the scale of injustice, bring hope to the darkest of corners, and change the world an act at a time. Public service is not limited to any vocation, specialty or beliefs. It is every person. It is for me.”

I will cherish forever.
relationships are something that as a friend and as a mentor. These laughter that came from Room 3 about the cheesy smiles and loud back on my time at UNC, I think highlight of my week. When I think football and four square was the community in a positive way. By being in the BPSS program, I was able to break out of the Chapel Hill bubble and contribute to my community in a positive way. Showing up every Wednesday at the Boys and Girls Club to play pick-up football and four square was the highlight of my week. When I think back on my time at UNC, I think about the goofy smiles and loud laughter that came from Room 3 and the relationships that I built as a friend and as a mentor. These relationships are something that I will cherish forever.

Through BPSS, I have had countless notable experiences that have impacted my community and helped shape my perspective. I have had the opportunity to interact with and support approximately 100 elementary and middle school students within the Chapel Hill-Carrboro school district. Additionally, BPSS has made an impact on me during my time at Carolina. It has made me an accountable student, an empathetic teacher and an environmentally friendly citizen.

BPSS has increased the breadth and impact of my community service while broadening my understanding of public service. BPSS also helped strengthen my service-oriented mindset and gave me some of the skills that I needed to serve others. I am grateful to have been a part of this program since the beginning of my undergraduate career because it has provided me with opportunities early on.

From a participant on a trip to planning and leading my own trip exploring substance abuse and food inequality in urban environments, I have learned a lot about the different types of service and how to proactively incorporate reflection into service activities to better serve the community in need. Additionally, I have learned about my personal leadership values and beliefs, and my BPSS experiences ultimately shaped me into a better leader than I was before.

My time in the Buckley Public Service Scholars program has been invaluable and has allowed me to expand my knowledge and experiences related to working with people with disabilities. Through my work, I have realized the need for increased and equitable access to resources is bigger than I ever could have imagined before, and I have adjusted my future career plans to reflect this need.

UNC School of Dentistry
Through my experiences in the Buckley Public Service Scholars program, I have come to understand what service truly means. I learned to measure service not by the hours I spent but rather by the impact I had; my focus became quality, not quantity of service. Giving another person even the smallest amount of joy is what I strive to achieve every day that I give to others through service. Whether it be direct or indirect, service has given me motivation in every aspect of my life.

NICOLE TRUPIANO
