CONGRATS
CLASS OF 2019!

Conratulations

In 1897 Carolina's President, Edwin Anderson Alderman said, "Our first duty is to enable the students to catch the spirit of the great masters of thought; our next is to the people, to aid in developing our resources." The 2019 Buckley Public Service Scholars have demonstrated both of those attributes—from trainings and courses to completing 300 service hours during their time in this program.

As the Carolina Center for Public Service looks forward to its 20th anniversary this fall, I am grateful for our students who accomplish amazing acts of service that start in our state and extend to our nation and the world. As you will see in this bulletin, examples of the dedication and work of Buckley Scholars demonstrate how they put their heads, hearts and souls behind our University's mission of public service.

This ceremony marks the end of a college journey, but I know these graduates will continue to inspire us through their acts of service. It is exciting to think about all they will accomplish in the future as they leave Carolina with their dedication to making a difference in the lives of others. Congratulations, 2019 Buckley Public Service Scholars.

Kevin M. Guskiewicz

Interim Chancellor, The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

Congratulations to the 2019 class of Buckley Public Service Scholars, the 15th class of Scholars to graduate. These 322 new graduates join the 2,720 Buckley alumni who have made tremendous contributions to their communities, at Carolina and around the world. Over the past four years this class has performed more than 161,900 hours of service. However, impressive as this is, what they accomplish and learn along the way is much more than a count of their service hours.

The impact of their efforts has been felt within elementary school classrooms, health clinics, community organizations working on food insecurity and homelessness and in areas devastated by Hurricanes Matthew, Florence and Michael. This impact is also evident in the lives of those honored in this publication. We know from alumni of the program that their experiences here at Carolina have given them skills and ways of thinking about their responsibilities that are carried into their professional and personal lives even after they leave Chapel Hill.

Importantly, these outstanding students understand that their accomplishments are shared by all those who supported them along the way. Carolina faculty and staff, leaders and staff of community organizations and untold numbers of individuals with whom they've worked deserve credit and appreciation for their roles.

It is always special to celebrate this milestone with students, partners and friends. The 2019 Buckley Public Service Scholars' commitment to service and scholarship has been transformative for them and the community. I know that they will carry these values and lessons wherever their next adventure takes them.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Program overview

The Carolina Center for Public Service (CCPS) offers the Buckley Public Service Scholars program (BPSS) to provide a framework for Carolina undergraduate students committed to making a positive impact through service.

BPSS challenges participants to expand their understanding of service, connect academic and community-based experiences and build their capacity to help effect change. While completing the program components, participants build portfolios that reflect their learning and unique experiences throughout North Carolina, the nation and the world. Since 2003, BPSS has connected students with similar interests and provided special opportunities for leadership development and community engagement. This year, participating students reported service with more than 1,000 community and campus organizations.

In 2011, the Center announced the establishment of the Walter White Buckley Jr. Endowment. This endowment honors Walter Buckley, a business entrepreneur who has applied his professional expertise and personal commitment to making a difference in the lives of others and who exemplifies the qualities the program seeks to instill in Carolina students. The Walter White Buckley Jr. Endowment ensures Buckley Public Service Scholars will graduate for generations to come.

Program components

The BPSS program model incorporates a substantial commitment to public service with several forms of structured training and reflection on that service. While in the program, many students are introduced to social innovation, community-based research, advocacy and philanthropy as important forms of public service. BPSS is open to all full-time undergraduate students with at least four semesters remaining at Carolina. Transfer students must have at least three semesters remaining to enroll. To successfully complete the program, students build a portfolio that includes the following program components:

- A BPSS orientation session
- 300 hours of public service
- One service-learning course
- Four approved skills trainings
- A senior reflection activity
- A minimum cumulative GPA of 3.0

SPECIAL OPPORTUNITIES FOR BPSS PARTICIPANTS

Arts in Public Service Fellows

In 2014, the Carolina Center for Public Service and Carolina Performing Arts partnered to create the Arts in Public Service Fellows, a program that encourages students to make a direct impact in their communities through the arts. Arts in Public Service Fellows fulfill BPSS program requirements and build portfolios with a focus on the arts as instruments of social change. This year, Buckley Public Service Scholars Evan Linnett and Aisling Henihan are graduating as Arts in Public Service Fellows.

First-Year Service Corps

The Carolina Center for Public Service has offered a unique opportunity for selected first-year students to come together with faculty and staff throughout the year to deepen their academic and practical experience in public service. Through a variety of activities, participants learn about existing and emerging opportunities for public service and engagement on and off campus.

North Carolina Outward Bound School Scholarship

Each year, CCPS awards North Carolina Outward Bound School (NCOBS) scholarships to participants in BPSS, Carolina Leadership Development and the School of Education. Recipients receive full tuition for either a four or 28-day course at NCOBS. In 2019, the Center awarded 11 scholarships for 28-day courses and 11 for four-day courses.

Philanthropy as a Tool for Social Change

Philanthropy as a Tool for Social Change is a three-credit hour service-learning course offered through CCPS and the Learning by Giving Program. Through this course, students learn about and experience the process of awarding grants to local agencies. Students function as a committee and are responsible for researching North Carolina needs, designing grant award criteria, drafting and distributing a request for proposals, reviewing submissions and awarding grants to select community organizations. Since 2010, students in the class have awarded 33 grants, totaling more than $95,000.

SMART Mentoring

SMART engages Carolina undergraduates and local middle-school students in mentoring relationships. The program targets students from low-income communities and focuses on race, class and gender issues. Students selected to participate enroll in a fall three-credit hour course and a spring one-credit hour course. Staff from partnering organization Volunteers for Youth match SMART mentors with mentees by early September and the mentoring commitment continues through late April.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND FELLOWSHIPS

Community Service Scholarships

In 2015, Scott MacDonald '72 M.R.P. endowed the Scott D. MacDonald Community Service Scholarships, establishing the model for the Community Service Scholars Program. Community service scholarships are offered to a select group of service-oriented UNC-Chapel Hill students. During their time at Carolina, scholarship recipients:

- Receive an annual scholarship.
- Participate in the BPSS program to receive training, mentorship, leadership opportunities and structure to build knowledge and skills related to their service interests.
- Engage in and document substantial service hours with the goal of an average of at least 250 hours annually.
- Complete an annual reflection and self-assessment regarding their progress.
- Design and implement a capstone project prior to graduation.

Hanan Alazzam, Anish Bhatia, Finn Loendorf and John Roberson are graduating as our inaugural class of MacDonald Community Service Scholars.

In 2017, Donald Ubell '67 created the Ubell Family Community Service Scholarship. In 2018, Bret Leas and Audrey Fisher '14 created the Fischer Family Community Service Scholarship. With the establishment of these additional scholarships, 13 students have been awarded Community Service Scholarships to date.

MacDonald Community Service Fellowships

Scott MacDonald also endowed the Scott D. MacDonald Community Service Fellowship Program, which provides monetary support for juniors and seniors to work with faculty and staff to identify and implement a signature, experience-based public service project. This opportunity is available to Community Service Scholars and other students who can demonstrate a significant relationship with a community partner. To date, the Carolina Center for Public Service has awarded 15 MacDonald Fellowships.

This year, four BPSS graduates received MacDonald Fellowships.

- Hanan Alazzam used the fellowship to provide Hargraves Community Center with audiobooks and players to promote literacy education.
- Anish Bhatia used the fellowship to support the FoodFirst initiative by helping to consolidate the Interfaith Council for Social Services' Community Kitchen and Food Pantry services and alleviate food insecurity through increasing access to affected Orange County residents.
- Finn Loendorf designed and implemented a week-long summer camp, called "STEAM," at Boomerang Youth to increase exposure and interest in science topics for low-income middle school students identified through the Family Success Alliance.
- John Roberson used the fellowship to launch Strawless Chapel Hill – an environmental justice group in partnership with NCPIRG and three fellow Carolina seniors that works with local restaurants to promote their sustainable practices.

2019 GRADUATES

The 322 students graduating in the 2019 BPSS class reported nearly 161,907 hours of service as of April 2019. Of these hours, 76.4 percent primarily benefited North Carolina, 12 percent benefited other states and 11.6 percent benefited other countries.

BPSS participants represent 52 of more than 70 majors on campus. Participants focus on a large variety of service areas, from health to the environment.

“

As a part of the Buckley Public Service program, I was able to redefine my definition of service. Prior to this program, I viewed service as a one-way relationship, myself being of service to others. Over the course of these four years, I have learned that service is indeed a two-way relationship, with the communities being served having such a large impact on volunteers as well.

“

My experiences in the BPSS program have shaped and solidified my passion for medicine and my goal of becoming a physician. I have also realized that serving others simply for the sake of serving, without any ulterior motives, is fulfilling beyond belief. Sometimes, the smallest thing can mean so much for the person or community being served. In my opinion, there is no greater privilege than to become a compassionate and caring servant for the community in whatever profession or form it may take.

HOON KONG

The service I have done within the Chapel Hill community, specifically on campus, has helped enhance the arts, entertainment and cultural portfolio for the Buckley Public Service Scholars program. Specifically, my work with organizing and executing events with the Entertainment Committee in CUAB (such as concerts and comedy shows) has allowed me to provide opportunities for members of the student body to come together and enjoy live performances.

ALEXANDER BIANCHI

BUCKLEY PUBLIC SERVICE SCHOLARS

“

The BPSS program helped me create my own definition of what it means to be a public servant. It reminded me to exercise empathy, listen, collaborate often and always see the humanity in others.

ISABELLA COURTENAY-MORRIS

Through Buckley Public Service Scholars, I have taken a more intentional and reflective approach to my service. I have learned how to offer more sustainable and effective help to the communities around me.

Through the Buckley Public Service Scholars program, I have gained access to a range of opportunities, from professional development to nonprofit management training. By far the biggest impact has been in the BPSS community itself. Being part of a network of service-oriented students and local leaders has given me a sense of purpose beyond myself and exposed me to so many new ideas and passions. I look forward to taking this mindset of service above self out of college and into the world.

The program has helped shape my service philosophy surrounding humility, sustainability and reflection. Before college, I served blindly without thinking about my impact or reflecting on my service. Through BPSS, I have been able to reflect after each of my service project, building up my skills and reforming my mindset. Through discussion and experience, my service-learning class also helped me shape my intentions of service. I learned about the importance of listening, communication and sustainability.

BPSS has allowed me to make strong connections internationally. It has shown me the power of compassion and all the positive that can be done with my time on this earth. For me, it has re-instilled hope and belief that humanity is still very well alive, although it may not feel like it at times. Most of all, it showed me the value of acts of selflessness.

The BPSS program was a tool that allowed me to capitalize on my passion for service and helped me learn ways to be more impactful. I was given the opportunity to collaborate with others who shared the same goal of bettering the community and was taught how to be cognizant of other people's situations, cultures and views. Overall, the BPSS program helped me develop as a person, cultivated my motivation to pay it forward and encouraged me to try my best to make a positive difference.”

“

Over the past four years, my piano student and I have grown in our musical abilities and confidence. At Summit Kids, I have learned effective ways to support, encourage and motivate children, as well as grown in leadership. Working in Honduras with Mercy & Grace, I have learned about different cultures and have brought running clean water to villages. I have also had the opportunity to learn from the Honduran attitude of humility and service.

“

I joined BPSS to encourage myself to volunteer. I never thought I would gain so much from the experiences I have had in my volunteer positions. During my APPLES course with Chapel Hill-Carrboro City Schools, I realized how rewarding working with bilingual students is and it encouraged me to apply for a Fulbright English Teaching Assistant position. My time spent with VITA was also rewarding, because I felt like I was making an impact and difference in my community.

Being part of Buckley Public Service Scholars has allowed me to maintain my engagement in public service throughout my time at UNC. Through BPSS, I have been able to meet incredible, motivated individuals who teach me something new and different during each interaction. I am grateful I had the opportunity to participate in multiple programs through the Carolina Center for Public Service and APPLES Service-Learning program and I hope to share this knowledge and experience with others even after I graduate.

Through the organizations I have worked with in Buckley, particularly the Student Health Action Coalition and Community Empowerment Fund, I have learned to think and reflect critically, challenge systems and embrace partnership and the power of relationships built on trust. I walk away from the program with a more defined vision of what "service" means to me and more solid footing in the ways I hope to continue this work in the future.

Although I have participated in a variety of service-related activities, the BPSS program emphasized a comprehensive understanding of what service is and how it should be approached. Upon graduation from the program, I feel adequately equipped as a public servant to help when I can, encourage others when I cannot and emphasize the importance of service-learning for skill development.

BPSS has not only given me opportunities to collaborate with service-centered organizations but has held me accountable to be selfless and service-minded as a student leader at UNC. This is extremely impactful as an individual who desires to lead a life beyond college that is consistently giving back and serving those around me.

Thanks to BPSS, I was able to explore and expand my fields of service. It is difficult to determine my main focus of service as I have participated in a wide array of fields including education, gender equality, racial equality, animal welfare, environment and many more. Being a part of BPSS has allowed me to explore many opportunities that would otherwise not have been available to me and has made me grow into the person I am today.

Over the course of the BPSS program, I have had the opportunity to engage with a wide array of direct and administrative public service. “

Buckley allowed me to work with other students to develop innovative solutions ... For example, in APPLES, my co-leader and I were very interested in serving refugee populations and felt there was not enough support and services offered through UNC. APPLES funded a new fall break trip, in which we pioneered a program to learn about the resettlement process and volunteer with the largest refugee community in North Carolina. It was satisfying to teach other students who shared the same passion for serving refugees.

Buckley Public Service Scholars has reframed the way I view service and given me the tools to be an effective changemaker. The program has given me the confidence to tackle tough questions about inequality and injustice through meaningful conversations with activists and community leaders and the support of my peers. I was able to positively impact many undergraduate students in the Biology Department at UNC. As a supplemental instructor for Biology 202, I helped students tackle the tough course material, which subsequently allowed them to feel confident in their abilities to excel in future science courses at UNC.

VISHAL IYER

BPSS has allowed me to be more reflective of the service I have done as a Carolina student. Additionally, all of the trainings have taught me important skills regarding how to incorporate storytelling and implicit bias training into my own service opportunities.

My experience in the Buckley Public Service Scholars program has strengthened my understanding of how to create a sustainable impact in my community. I have witnessed the significant impact of quality and skilled service, rather than focusing solely on quantity of service hours completed.

MARY KATHERINE FALGOUT

“

The Buckley Public Service Scholars program has enabled me to see the true value of empathy, fellowship and passion during my time at Carolina. In my time of service, I have helped shape students' passions for education and the importance of identity. It will lead me to a life of service to others as a researcher and scholar in the field of education and help me find ways to narrow the gaps in the inequities that many of us see in our world today.

“

The Buckley Public Service Scholars program gave me an understanding of the importance of continual, lifelong learning in public service. It is not enough to come from a place of simply wanting to “help” others. We must educate ourselves on our own privileges and disadvantages and how they affect our relationship to those we want to serve. We need to continually learn from the communities we seek to serve and always come from a place of understanding and open-mindedness.
